

Figure 1: Patient 7, where no overlap between 5mm margin and actual progression was present. The poor contrast scan makes it difficult to identify where exactly the boundary of sufficient ablation is located.

